Description:

Anthropomorphic upper body and head extend from the vessel form below and are carved in one piece. The vessel/head has a hole in its head that opens into the hollow below which holds liquid. Into this hole a stopper with a geometrically carved top and long dip-stick is inserted. The figure has a realistically carved face and helmet-like hat of hair and it stares straight ahead. Its arms are folded across its chest - the left over the right and a string of black and white beads adorns its neck and torso
