

SAHRIS OBJECT PDF REPORT

Object Code: 84/764

Quantity: 1.00

Cultural Association:

Maker:

Production Place: London

Description:

Silk also has low tensile strength, making it likely to break under high tension. It's often used to suture mucosal tissues or to close intertriginous areas. Because of its easy handling, silk is also helpful as a temporary suture during surgery. Material: Silk thread. Colour: Off-white. Maker: Mayer & Meltzer. Place: London, c. 1920.

Provenance:

Cape Medical Museum